TUESDAY. 9:04AM.

An EHO inspector walks in unannounced.

WITHOUT PELIKN

"The fridge log is in a binder somewhere. The cleaning schedule hasn't been signed off this week. The allergen sheet is from last year. The manager is on the phone trying to find the HACCP folder."

The inspector marks three compliance failures. The Food Hygiene Rating drops to a 2. It goes on the window. On the website. On the FSA database.

Average cost of a failed EHO visit: remediation, legal and reputational £10,000+

WITH PELIKN

Every temperature log, cleaning sign-off and allergen record is in the system — timestamped, named, complete. The manager opens Pelikn and exports a PDF compliance report in one tap.

The inspector reviews it. They're in and out in 20 minutes. Five-star rating maintained. No stress, no scramble, no damage.

This scenario plays out 180,000 times a year across UK food businesses.

THE SOLUTION

One app. Every operation. Zero paper.

Pelikn brings compliance, workforce management and staff admin into a single platform. Less than £1 a day. Works offline. Up in 15 minutes.

HACCP-Grade Compliance

Fridge logs, cooking records, allergens, EHO audit, cleaning — all timestamped. One-tap PDF for inspectors.

Rota & Timesheets

AI-assisted scheduling, PIN clock-in/out, overtime alerts, payroll CSV. Real-time labour cost by role.

Staff Management & HR

Digital staff files, training tracker, document storage, disciplinary records. No paper personnel folders.

Multi-Venue Hub

Compliance scores, labour costs and staff status across all sites. Full oversight from one login.

WHY NOW

Three forces converging.

1

Regulatory enforcement is tightening

The FSA's Food Hygiene Rating Scheme is now mandatory in Wales and actively enforced across England. Natasha's Law (allergen labelling) came into force October 2021, creating an ongoing compliance obligation every food business must meet. EHO inspection frequency is up post-pandemic. Non-compliance is costly and public.

2

Digital adoption has crossed the threshold

Post-pandemic, QR menus, contactless payment and online ordering normalised digital tools across independent hospitality. The "too complicated for our team" objection has largely evaporated. Venue managers are ready — they just haven't found the right tool yet.

3

The competitive landscape is still fragmented

No existing player combines compliance + workforce + HR for independent venues at an accessible price. Trail addresses compliance only. Operandio is priced for enterprise. The whitespace for a £5–25/mo all-in-one is completely open.

MARKET OPPORTUNITY

£1.2 billion addressable.

Less than 1% penetration needed to hit Series A readiness.

TAM

£1.2B

All UK & Ireland food businesses requiring compliance and operations software — restaurants, pubs, hotels, cafes, takeaways, catering.

SAM

£320M

180,000+ independent restaurants, cafes, pubs and hotels in the UK. Our primary target market today.

SOM — 3-YEAR TARGET

£4.8M

1,600 venues at £25/mo average. Less than 1% penetration of the independent market.

UK MARKET BREAKDOWN

Restaurants	48,000
Pubs & bars	38,000
Cafes & coffee	24,000
Hotels (with F&B)	14,000

REVENUE EXPANSION EXAMPLE — 3-SITE GROUP

£55/mo →

£550/yr

Pro at £25 + 2 extra venues at £15 each.

Annual option saves the customer £110 and pre-pays 12 months upfront.

No competitor sells at this price

Trail starts at £30/mo. Operandio at £50/mo. Food Alert at £60/mo. Pelikn is 2–10x cheaper for a broader feature set.

COMPETITIVE LANDSCAPE

The only all-in-one for independent hospitality.

Every competitor solves half the problem at 2–10x the price. None works offline.
None has HR.
